

Write Here, Write Now Ground Rules

1. Be respectful of others. If a member indicates discomfort, the topic of conversation must change.
2. Leave any writing prejudices at the door. Don't yuck someone else's yum regarding genre, style, or narrative elements.
3. Keep it kind. Comments and critique must be constructive.
4. Keep it brief and don't monopolize--this is a conversation, not a monologue.
5. Don't promote discriminatory ideologies (racist, sexist, ableist, homo-/transphobic, etc.).
6. Keep book talk to a minimum; don't bring up your favorite movie or how your favorite author could have done something better.
7. One person is speaking at a time. Save side conversations for after we're done.
8. Failure to follow these rules may result in expulsion from the group.
